MOROCCAN YOUTH COUNCIL FOR DIPLOMATIC AND INTERNATIONAL COOPERATION

GENERAL SECRETARIAT / CONTROLLED PUBLIC POLICY

Training Resources Guide

INSTITUTIONAL POLICY AND GOVERNANCE DOCUMENT

Effective date	27 April 2025
Document status	In force / controlled public edition
Institutional owner	General Secretariat of MYCDIC
Reference note	Official 2025 institutional edition - controlled maintenance

Institutional effect. This document governs conduct and internal institutional practice within its scope. It does not create diplomatic status, public authority, employment, contractual rights, or authority to bind MYCDIC unless a separate approved instrument expressly provides otherwise.

1. Purpose and institutional scope

This Training Resources Guide sets the minimum standards applicable to MYCDIC members, Youth Ambassadors, office-holders, staff, volunteers, delegates, authorized account users and other persons acting under the Council's name within the scope described in this document.

The policy protects both the Council and the individuals who serve it by clarifying authority, expected conduct, decision controls, evidence standards and the separation between institutional roles and personal activity.

2. Existing policy framework

1 Introduction

The Moroccan Youth Council for Diplomatic and International Cooperation (MYCDIC) is committed to empowering Moroccan youth to lead in diplomacy and international cooperation. To support this mission, MYCDIC provides comprehensive training resources to equip members, MYCDIC Youth Ambassadors, staff, and volunteers (collectively referred to as “Representatives”) with the knowledge, skills, and ethical grounding needed to excel in their roles. This Training Resources Guide outlines the workshops, online modules, and other educational opportunities available to ensure Representatives uphold MYCDIC’s standards, as detailed in the Code of Conduct, Diplomatic Protocols, Membership Guidelines, Event Protocols, Social Media Policy, and Compliance and Enforcement Policy.

These resources are designed to foster professionalism, cultural sensitivity, and leadership, preparing Representatives for domestic and international engagements.

2 Scope and Application

This guide applies to:

All MYCDIC Representatives, including new and existing members, MYCDIC Youth Ambassadors, staff, and volunteers.

Training required for participation in MYCDIC activities, such as events, diplomatic engagements, or leadership roles.

Training resources are mandatory for certain roles (e.g., event organizers, social media managers) and strongly encouraged for all Representatives to enhance their contributions to MYCDIC’s mission.

3 Objectives

The Training Resources Guide aims to:

Provide accessible, high-quality training to develop diplomatic and leadership skills.

Ensure compliance with MYCDIC’s policies and ethical standards.

Promote cultural awareness and effective communication in global settings.

Empower Representatives to represent MYCDIC with confidence and professionalism.

4 Training Programs Overview

MYCDIC offers a variety of training formats, including:

Workshops: In-person or virtual sessions led by experts in diplomacy, leadership, or related fields.

Online Modules: Self-paced courses available via MYCDIC's e-learning platform (<https://academy.mycdic.org>).

Webinars: Live or recorded sessions with guest speakers or MYCDIC leadership.

Mentorship: One-on-one guidance for Youth Ambassadors or select members, arranged through training@mycdic.org.

Resource Library: Documents, videos, and templates accessible at <https://www.mycdic.org/documents.html>.

Training is tailored to different roles (e.g., members, event organizers, Youth Ambassadors) and experience levels.

Mentorship Program: Request a mentor for personalized guidance via training@mycdic.org.

FAQs: Review common training questions at <https://mycdic.org/faq>.

9 Monitoring and Evaluation

Oversight: The MYCDIC Training Committee, under the Leadership Council, evaluates training effectiveness and updates content annually.

Participant Feedback: Collected via post-training surveys to ensure relevance and quality.

Compliance: The Compliance Committee verifies completion of mandatory training, as per the Compliance and Enforcement Policy.

10 Amendments

This Training Resources Guide may be updated to reflect new programs, technologies, or MYCDIC's mission. Representatives will be notified via email and the MYCDIC website. The latest version is available at <https://mycdic.org/documents/training-resources.pdf>.

11 Acknowledgment

By participating in MYCDIC activities, Representatives acknowledge their responsibility to complete required training and adhere to related policies. Non-compliance may result in disciplinary measures, as outlined in the MYCDIC Code of Conduct and Compliance and Enforcement Policy.

Enhanced institutional safeguards

The following provisions strengthen the operational reading of this policy and apply together with the preceding rules.

Authority and representation controls

No member, ambassador, office-holder, volunteer, partner or contractor may bind MYCDIC, make commitments in its name, issue credentials, promise funding, accept legal obligations, or present personal views as an institutional position unless the authority is documented and current.

Titles, badges, cards, email addresses and public profiles evidence only the status shown in the live MYCDIC record. They must not be used to imply diplomatic immunity, governmental authority, consular powers, state accreditation or any status not expressly granted by the competent authority.

Conflict of interest, gifts and improper advantage

Covered persons must disclose actual, potential and perceived conflicts before participating in a decision, procurement, selection, partnership, evaluation, disciplinary matter or financial transaction.

Bribes, facilitation payments, secret commissions, kickbacks and any improper advantage are prohibited. Gifts or hospitality that could reasonably influence judgment must be declined or declared under the applicable approval process.

Information security and institutional records

Confidential, personal, financial, security, credential, investigation and unpublished strategic information must be handled only through approved systems and shared on a need-to-know basis.

Official records must not be altered, fabricated, backdated, selectively deleted or moved to personal accounts to evade oversight. Where a controlled register exists, the live register prevails over screenshots, forwarded files or private copies.

Safeguarding and non-retaliation

Harassment, intimidation, exploitation, coercion, discrimination, sexual misconduct, abuse of authority and retaliation against a person who raises a concern in good faith are prohibited.

Where safety, safeguarding, evidence preservation or institutional integrity requires it, MYCDIC may apply proportionate interim measures without treating those measures as a final finding.

Interpretation and hierarchy

This policy must be read with the statutes, internal regulations, approved decisions, privacy rules, safeguarding controls and other applicable MYCDIC instruments. Applicable law always prevails where it imposes a higher or mandatory standard.

If two internal rules conflict, the competent governance body determines the controlling rule, taking account of legal hierarchy, date, scope and the specific decision involved.

Competency framework

Training should build measurable competence in institutional ethics, diplomacy, protocol, policy analysis, project delivery, safeguarding, communication, digital security and leadership.

Completion alone does not prove mastery; assessments and supervised practice may be required for sensitive roles.

Mandatory role certification

MYCDIC may condition appointment, delegation participation, account access, event leadership or public representation on completion of specified modules and renewal cycles. Failure to maintain required training may result in temporary restriction of duties.

Assessment integrity

Participants must complete assessments honestly. Impersonation, answer sharing, falsified attendance, manipulated certificates or unauthorized assistance may invalidate results and trigger disciplinary review.

Training records and privacy

Training records should document module, date, result, validity and issuing authority. Access is limited according to role and privacy requirements. Certificates do not create authority beyond the underlying appointment or membership record.

Accountability, records and continuing obligations

A person who leaves a role remains responsible for confidentiality, return of Council property, non-misuse of credentials and cooperation with legitimate record-preservation or investigation requirements concerning activity during their mandate.

MYCDIC may amend procedures, forms and technical controls without changing the underlying effective date of this institutional edition, provided that substantive policy amendments are approved through the competent governance process.

Acknowledgement

Participation in MYCDIC activities constitutes a duty to read and comply with the instruments applicable to the relevant role. Where acknowledgement is required, electronic acceptance, signed forms, onboarding records or controlled administrative logs may be used as evidence of receipt.
